HOBBIES

A prominent physician tells us that "hobbies" are healthy things for us to have, and we feel that we must be blessed with unusually good health, as we have ALWAYS had a hobby—and it's

HARNESS!

Years ago, when leather sold for nineteen cents a pound, our boast was that we made the best harness that could be made of good leather, good thread and good workmanship.
Now, when that same kind of leather is selling for forty-nine and fifty cents a pound, we still maintain that we have the best harness that can be made. All you have to do to prove that we are telling you facts is to go to the next "sale," and hear Col. Hensley Hawkins say in that musical drawl for which he is so famous, "This is a set, gentlemen, of Mike Brown's Harness. What do you bid?" Then when you can see the farmer "set up and take notice," for he knows there will be some bidding on that harness.

This is the time of the year, when harness is foremost in every farmer's mind, and this is the time of the year, also, when we are ready to sell him. All winter long our men have been making up harness for Spring trade, and now we are ready. Of course, it's higher than when our grandfathers used to buy it, but, considering the price of leather, it's a wonder how low in price and high in quality the Square Deal harness is.

Come in, gentlemen, we are ready to rig up those horses.

HEALTH LEAGUE

Col. L. M. Mans, Secretary State Department of Health, Delivers Interesting Address.

At the First Presbyterian church in this city Monday afternoon seven men and eighteen women gathered in the Sunday school room to hear one of Kentucky's greatest men.

Miss Yancey in her preliminary address, made a startling statement in reference to one of our country school houses as a breeder of consumption.

Miss Casey's report was excellent and will appear later.

Col. L. M. Mans was then introduced.
He is a pleasant speaker and has seen service in the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico. He gave his experiences as a health officer in a delightfully conversational vein.

He said when he went to Manila the city was infested with rats. He secured more than 20,000 rat traps and put his men to work and in six weeks they had destroyed more than 800,000 rats and the city was then free from the rodents and bubonic plague.

The people ran about with smallpox and he compelled vaccination and when he left smallpox was practically unknown.

He said in the year 1914 one-third of the deaths in our city was from consumption. Yet we did nothing to stay
it. If one-third of our horses, cattle and hogs were dying from foot and mouth disease we would move all the powers that be to eradicate it. One-sixth of the deaths, or about 4,800 people, are reported dying annually in Kentucky from the Great White Plague, yet the present Legislature in poverty stricken when it comes to building a sanatorium for the afflicted
one. Yet our hogs, horses and cattle get special attention. Read the speech of the Colonel which will appear in full in tomorrow's paper.

REVIVAL SERVICES AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

Revival services will begin at the First M. E. church, South, next Sunday, February 6. The pastor, Rev.
W. B. Campbell, will preach each evening, and will have as an assistant, a song leader and soloist, Rev. W. B.
Corder of Norborne, Mo., who will have full charge of the music and comes highly recommended, having traveled with Evangelists Bridges and Tillman. The song service will begin each evening at 7:15. Mr. Corder will not arrive before the first of next week, but the pastor will open the meeting next Sunday, and have things well under way when he comes. The church is making preparation for a great meeting. The day services will be announced later.

DANGEROUS.

At the intersection of Lexington and Second streets is a large hole in the street left by the caving in and settling of some improperly tamped earth when a sewer was built along Second street last summer. This hole is fast assuming dangerous proportions and should be repaired.

CHLOROFORM 'EM!

The last week residents of various parts of the city have been complaining of the number of stray dogs that infest the streets. Some step toward ridding the city of these pests should be taken as they are becoming a common nuisance.

INTELLIGENT PONY.

One of our newspapermen has a pony which is valued very highly by all the family. When the children and the mother go to feed the creature he does not seem to take kindly to them, but when the lord and master of the house goes out to the stable there is a snicker of delight from the pony. It was some time before the children found out the reason why. Finally they discovered that daddy broke the ears of corn in two and the pony thought he was getting double rations.
Sonic pony, that.

WHAT'S THE NAME, PLEASE!

Monday afternoon while attempting to alight from a street car at one of the principal business corners of the city, a prominent resident had a narrow escape from being run down by an automobile, which did not stop, as a city ordinance decrees, when passing a car receiving or discharging passengers.
This is not the first occurrence of this kind and several reckless drivers disregard the ordinance time after time.

tablished in business in this city, but ment at Portsmouth and is enjoying a

THE HOME OF QUALITY CLOTHES

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO MOST MEN WENT TO A CUSTOM BOOT MAKER FOR THEIR SHOES, BUT HOW MANY GO TODAY?

The shoe stores multiplied amazingly because they sell more shoe fit, comfort and value than the custom boot maker. The ready-for-use makers have studied and classified every foot until they can fit it exactly. It is simply a matter of a courteous clerk measuring your foot to find the right standard, size and shape; then you have shoe satisfaction.

THAT IS TRUE OF CLOTHING ALSO. IN "HECHINGER" CLOTHES YOU CAN GET THE EXACT FIT YOU CRAVE WHETHER YOU ARE STOUT OR SLIM, TALL OR SHORT.

A very slight adjustment is probably all you need—this is possible because we have concentrated fifty-five years of close study on the assembling of clothes that do fit. The values, the fabrics and the workmanship are high in keeping.

Make it a point to come in and let us prove it to you.

of money.

THE DEARTH OF MEN TEACHERS.

The annual report of the Commissioner of Education of Massachusetts deplores the scarcity of men teachers. Normal schools for men are suggested to encourage men to go into teaching. This condition is not confined to Massachusetts. It is about the same everywhere as far as the lower school grades are concerned. All educators deplore this tendency.

Yet what can school boards do? A highly competent woman teacher can be secured for $500 to $700 a year. Many gifted women are teaching for less than that, though it's not a business proposition if they have to pay board bills. But few men teachers want to try to support a family on $500 to $700 a year.

There are still a few places which realize the value of men teachers in lower grade work. They sometimes pay the unimpaired salary of $1,000, which keeps an ambitious young fellow until he can get a job in a high school or college.

The man teacher does acquire an influence that few women ever gain. They may be superior in no way to their women colleagues. But they do get a grip on the mind of a boy.

When a youngster reaches the age of vent and cuff love, scents his handkerchief and studies the harmony of his neckties, he has plenty of respect for womankind. But in the previous period, say from 10 to 14, he looks at women as an inferior order of being. Whatever graces or requirements they attain, they can not grasp the masculine point of view nor share in the joys of masculine experience. To the boys, the most gifted woman teacher is primarily an exponent of such wasteful and useless ideas as brushed hair, washed faces and other notions of an effete civilization.

The man teacher may be equally firm for good manners. But to the boy mind, he was once a boy, he knows the boy point of view, and can lead and control the boy heart. But there will never be many more men teachers in our schools at the present level of salaries.

THE ARMY OF BICYCLE RIDERS.

The bicycle does not figure much in the newspapers, but it is still a very active feature of daily life. Over 400,000 of them were sold last year, not including any motorcycles. Bicycling will probably never again be a fashionable sport. But it is an enormous convenience, and permits many a workman to live in a comfortable suburb and wheel in to his factory.

The prominence of the bicycle in sporting life twenty years ago seems almost unbelievable now. Men of a type that now would be too lazy to walk a mile to their business, used to make their century runs on their wheels and boast of the ease of the exertion. The society girls found the exercise rather strenuous but they would never admit it.

In moderation it was a very healthful sport, and it seems too bad that the wheel of today is merely a working tool. The young fry still find pleasure in it though, and the school yard frequently looks like a Bicycle Club rendezvous of twenty-five years ago.

Some notional people are insisting that the schools should educate the children instead of preparing them for college.

The people who claim that Grip should be spelled with a small "g" are probably those who never had the disease.

Did you ever see a sealhag who didn't consider himself a bright brainy and shining example for his fellow men?

As none of the Ford peace party was arrested for assault and battery, the trip is called a grand success.

Bees Swarm.

(Paterson Outlook.)

U. W. McKinley, the well known bee man of Odessa, says that one of the colonies of his colony swarmed on January 12, which was a very warm day. The bees came out and flew around, but finally went back into the hive. Mr. McKinley says this is the first instance of this kind he has ever seen. His bees are in excellent condition, with plenty of bees and plenty of honey.

Captures Eagle.

(Winchester Democrat.)

J. W. McIntosh, bridge inspector for the Louisville & Nashville, who lives near Indian Fields, is the proud possessor of a handsome eagle that was captured on a farm near Maloney a few days ago. The bird was shot in the wing and temporarily disabled, but is now all right. It measures a little over seven feet from tip to tip and is the largest one ever seen in this part of the state.

Remarkable Record.

(Henry County Local.)

W. P. Rice, the genial and popular clerk in F. M. Karr's store, was out of the store several days last week suffering intensely with grip. It was the first and only time he had been kept away from that selfsame store in nearly forty-six years, for he has been there that long, thirty years under Mr. Karr and sixteen years under his predecessor, J. N. Rees. It is the first time Mr. Rice ever had a doctor in his life.

THIS DATE IN HISTORY.

February 1.

Thomas Barlow Walker, Minnesota lumberman, philanthropist and art patron, is 76 years old today. With James J. Hill he shares the name of the "grand old man of Minnesota." He made a fortune in lumberlands in the northwest, and now has extensive interests in white pine in California. Born in Xenia, O., on February 1, 1840, he was graduated from Baldwin University, and became a school teacher. Later Mr. Walker became a traveling salesman, and moved to Minneapolis in 1862. He secured a chance to go out with government surveys, and was one of the surveyors of the first Minnesota railroad.

The development of the lumber trade then began to boom, and Mr. Walker acquired some of the most valuable timber in the region. He made a fortune in lumber, and later gave much of his time to home life. He developed the market system of Minneapolis, to meet the requirements of a big distributing center. He built St. Louis Park, a suburb of the city, and was the originator and builder of the Minneapolis Public Library. He added the building up of the Academy of Science in Minneapolis and its museum of science and art. His splendid collection of art works fills the art gallery of the library. Mr. Walker is a firm believer in conservation of forests.

William P. Hall, New York philanthropist and church worker, 52 years old today.

Hon. George F. Edmunds, former U. S. Senator from Vermont, 88 years old today.

George S. Todd, assistant to the Attorney General of the United States, 64 years old today.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullins live on the pike three miles east of Sherman in the Vallandigham neighborhood, and this is the seventeenth child in the Mullins family, eight by the first wife of Mr. Mullins and nine by the second. Only eleven of the children are living. Of all this large family there is not a single twin. Mr. Mullins is 60 years old, but his wife is quite a number of years younger.

Unique Distinction.

(Lebanon Enterprise.)

Hubert Wheeler, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Wheeler, residing at Rich Branch, in the southern end of Marion county, bears a distinction that perhaps no other child in the state enjoys. The child has five living grandfathers, three of them great-grandfathers and two grandfathers. Its great-grandfathers are A. M. Stam and Frank Lowe of Merriam, Taylor county, and Levi Wheeler of Hodgenville, while its grandfathers are Charlie Wheeler of Bradfordsville, and P. W. Stamp of Merriam.

Must Have Been at Ripley.

(Augusta Chronicle.)

Shortly after dark Monday night several residents of Augusta claim to have seen an aeroplane. The alrship came down the Ohio river on the Kentucky side, and when between here and South Higginsport turned to the left, going in the direction of Brooksville. Roy Ellington of the steamer Whisper, took a good look at the aeroplane with a glass and thought he could see the propeller working. Charles Smith on the same boat, says that he distinctly saw two lights on the machine, a white light at the front and a green one in the rear.

STONS OF DANGER

That Should Be Heeded By Maysville People.

There's serious danger in neglecting any weakness of the kidneys. The warning that Nature gives should not be overlooked. If troubled by too frequent passage of the kidney secretions; burning or scalding; if the secretions are highly colored and contain sediment when left standing—if you have backache, too, with frequent headaches and dizziness, make up your mind that your kidneys are affected and begin using some reliable kidney remedy. Deaths from kidney disease have increased in the United States alone, 72 per cent in the last 20 years. The risk is too great—you can't afford to delay. Maysville people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Can you ask for better proof of merit than the statement of this Maysville resident?

W. F. Lynch, 127 West Third St., Maysville, says: "My kidneys were weak and the passages of the kidney secretions were scanty and painful. Having used Doan's Kidney Pills before, I again got a box and they quickly restored my kidneys to a normal condition."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Lynch had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

HEALTH COMMISSIONER TELLS WHY MEN ARE BALD.

In the February American Magazine Dr. Arthur R. Reynolds, former Health Commissioner of Chicago, gives the following reason for baldness:

"The hats that men wear are the cause of their baldness above the hat line. Women also wear hats, but their hats are fastened to their hair and do not grip the head as men's hats do. All other causes of baldness such as infections, seborrhea, etc., affect both sexes alike and are, in fact, more difficult to treat locally in women than in men because of their long hair. "How does the hat affect the growth of hair in man? By compressing the arteries, the veins, the lymphatics and to some extent the nerves that supply and nourish the hair. It is not because the hat is hard or soft, or that it keeps the head too hot. It is because the hat band compresses the vessels and starves the roots of the hair. Caps may do the same thing, but caps as a rule do not grip the head so tightly as hats do. "Baldness usually begins at the summit of the crown toward the back part, at the distant and weaker part of the vessels furnishing the circulation. In such cases the pressure has been on the vessels on the side of the head. Sometimes the baldness begins above the forehead and is the high forehead type of baldness. In these cases the pressure has been upon the vessels of the forehead. Sometimes the head is bald low down in the back where the pressure has been upon the vessels in this region. When the head is completely bald on top the pressure has been on the entire vascular supply of the scalp."

The yacht is one of the finest boats on the Pacific coast. The background for these scenes was provided by the bay of Avalon and the beautiful Catalina shore.

MASTER BAKERS MEET AT ATLANTA.

Atlanta, Ga., February 1.—The Master Bakers' Association, comprising the owners of big bake-shops throughout the country, opened its annual convention here today. The members are favoring legislation by the government regularizing the warehousing of grain and a method of stabilizing the market.

The coming week of the present session of the Kentucky Legislature will be marked, probably, by the insertion of "Uncle Bill" Allen, Republican, in the House in favor of S. C. DeLoach, Democrat, and action by the House members on the Anti-pass bill that has passed the Senate.

Opponents and advocates of the bill to divide Pike county and create the new county of Stanley jockeyed until they finally agreed on a truce until Tuesday when the difference of opinion will be fought out.

"Unfortunately, yes. My man is waiting for me with both horses in the scrub. But before I go I want to ask a great favor of you. It is not to tell a soul I have been here."

"For a singer and a woman of temperament, Hilda Bouvier had a wonderfully level head. She inquired his reason in no promising tone."

"You will see at Mrs. Clarkson's concert."

"Hilda started."

"You are coming to that?"

"Without fail—to hear Mrs. Clarkson sing five songs—your song among them! Will you promise to say nothing about me? I have a reason which you will be the first to appreciate in due season."

Hilda hesitated and finally gave her word. Their hands were joined in instant, as he thanked her with gallant smile and bow. Then he was gone.

Mr. Clarkson and his young men sat at dinner that evening, with a Miss Bouvier hard to recognize as the apparently austere spinster who had hitherto been something of a skeleton at their board. Coldly handsome at her worst, a single day had brought forth a radiant beauty wreathed in human smiles. Mr. Clarkson wondered whether his wife's departure had brought to her the striking change in her companion; the two young men rested mutually assured that it had.

"The old girl keeps too close an eye on her," said little Mr. Hack, who kept the books and billed for Middlesex. "Get her to yourself, Ted, and she's as lark as they're made."

Ted Radford, the station overseer, was a personage not to be dismissed in a relative class. He was a typical back blocker, dry and wiry, usually cocksure, insolently cool, a fearless hand with horse, man, or woman. He was a good friend to Hack when there was no third person of his own kind to appreciate the overseer's conception of friendly chaff. They were by themselves now, yet the last speech drew from Radford a sufficiently sardonic grin.

"You see if she is, old man," said he, "and I'll stand by to collect your remains. Not but what she hasn't come off the ice and looks like Thorning if you take her the right way."

Ted Radford was a confirmed believer in the rightness of his own way with all mankind. His admirable confidence had not been shaken by a long succession of snubs in the quarter under discussion. As for Miss Bouvier, it was her practice to play off one young man against the other by discouraging each in his turn. But this evening she was a different being. She had a vague yet absolute conviction that her fortune was made.

And the next night the male trio were strangely absorbed in some situation happening which did not arouse Miss Bouvier's curiosity in the least. They were excited and yet constrained at dinner and drew their chairs close together on the veranda afterward. The young lady caught at least one word of which she did not know the meaning. She had the tact to keep out of earshot after that. Nor was she very much more interested when she met the two young men with revolvers in their hands the following day.

"Going to fight a duel?" she inquired. "More or less," returned the overseer without his usual pleasantry. "We're going to have a match at a target he laid the duels."

Mrs. Clarkson had returned with a gorgeous gown, only less full of her experiences than of the crowning triumph yet to come. She had bought every song of Sir Julian's to be had in Melbourne, and his name was always on her lips. In a reckless moment Miss Bouvier had inquired his age.

"I really don't know," said Mrs. Clarkson. "What can it matter?"

"I only wondered whether he was a roughish man or not."

"Really, Miss Bouvier," she said and nothing more in words. But the tone was intolerant, and his accompanying sneer a refinement in vulgarity, which only the really refined would have resented as it deserved. Miss Bouvier got up and left the room without a word. But her flaming face left a mis leading tale behind.

She was not introduced to Sir Julian, but that was not her prime disappointment when the great night came. All desire for an introduction, all interest in the concert, died a sudden death in Hilda Bouvier at her first glimpse of the gentleman who was duly presented to Mrs. Clarkson as Sir Julian Crum. He was more than middle aged. He wore a gray beard, and the air of a somewhat supercilious martyr. His near sight was obviated by double lenses in gold rims. Hilda could have wept before the model. For nearly three weeks she had been bowing in imagination to a very different Sir Julian. In the patchy glare of the kerosene lamps against the building which lined the corrugated walls of Clarendon's new front store, among flower and weed of township and of station, did Miss Bouvier seek in vain for a single eyeglass and a military manner. The concert began. Miss Bouvier opened it herself with the inevitable thankless pianoforte solo. In this case, however, she was not alone. The large, albeit the ordinary choice of no less a judge than Mrs. Clarkson. It was received with perfunctory applause, through which a dissipated stockman thundered thickly for a song. Miss Bouvier averted her eyes from Sir Julian (reincarnated) in the center of the first row as she descended from the platform. She had not the hardihood to glance toward the great man until the last distinct stockman had laid his wish and Mrs. Clarkson, in her new raiment, had both sung and acted a very ditty of the previous decade, wherein every line began with the word "somebody." It was an immediate success; the obstreperous stockman led the encore; but Miss Bouvier, who duly accompanied, extracted solace from the depressed attitude in which Sir Julian Crum sat looking down his nose.

The township boasted its score of dwellings, but few of them showed a light that evening; not less than ninety of the round hundred of inhabitants clapped their hands and welcomed their forebears in Clarendon's new store.

The other performers did not dim Mrs. Clarkson's brilliance by reason of their own. There was her own dear husband, whose serious recitation was the one enthralling number. There was a red light inspector who rapped on "The Scout" in a defiant baritone and a pudgy whose somewhat unbecoming was shaken to its depths by the simple pathos of "When Sparrows Build." Mrs. Clarkson could afford to encourage such events with marked aplomb. The only danger was that Sir Julian might think she really believed their musical attempts.

"One must do it," she therefore took occasion to explain as she clapped. "They are so nervous. The last thing is to put oneself in their place. It is nothing to me to sing a song, Sir Julian."

"So I can see, madam," said he. At the extreme end of the same row Miss Bouvier passed her unemployed moments between Mr. Radford and the wall and was not easy until she had signalled to little Mr. Hack to occupy the seat behind her. With the two to gether she felt comparatively comfortable. Mr. Radford's rambling criticism on the performers, always pungent, lost an opportunity of advancing his own ideas in the matter of musical entertainment.

"A song and dance," said he again and again with a more and more cheerful delivery. "A song and dance is what you want. You should have heard the Staters Belton in their puffy days at the Pax. You don't get the best of everything out of life."

"No; let's hope they've got some better men than you," returned Radford, inspired by the quorum of three.

It was the interval between parts one and two. The platform was unoccupied. A cool draft blew through the iron building from open door to open door; there was no occasion to go outside. They had done so, however, at the lower end; there was a sudden stampede of returning feet. A something in the scuffling steps, a certain outcry that accompanied them, caused Miss Bouvier and her companions to turn their heads. They turned again at a sudden jingle on the platform, and the girl caught her breath. There stood her missing hero, smiling on the people, dapper, swarthy, booted, spurred, and for one moment the man she had reason to remember, exactly as she remembered him. The next his folded arms sprang out from the shoulders, and a brace of long-barreled revolvers covered the assembly.

"Up with your hands, every man of you!" he cried. "No, not the ladies, but every man and boy who doesn't want a bullet in his brain!"

The command was echoed in unison accents at the lower door, where, in fact, a bearded savage had driven in all and sundry at his pistol's point. And in a few seconds the meeting was as one which had carried by overwhelming show of hands a proposition from which the miles alone saw occasion to dissent.

"You may have heard of me before," said the man on the platform, sweeping the forest of hands with his eyeglass. "My name's Stingaree."

EFFORTS TO AVERT STRIKE

Coal Miners and Operators To Hold Joint Conference At Mobile, Alabama.

Mobile, Ala., February 1.—The joint conference of mine operators and union leaders of Illinois, Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Indiana, which will open here today, with the object of reaching an agreement on the basis of wages and working conditions in the anthracite coal fields for the coming year, is considered one of the most important labor conferences of recent times. For on the measure of success which the conference achieves in bringing about some concrete agreement depends the peace of the mining industry. The operators have been preparing for the contingency of a strike when their agreements with the men terminate on March 31, and the United Mine Workers have, on the other hand, perfected their organization with a view to fighting it out for a higher wage scale, more favorable working conditions and recognition of their union. These two great organizations of capitalists and workers have had many clashes in the past. Although there have been concessions on both sides, the mine issues have never been settled, and the miners believe they have had the worst of past agreements.

Eight miners and eight operators from each of the four coal producing states will take part in the deliberations here. They will represent all of the interests involved in the coal situation, with the exception of the public. Representatives of the Department of Labor at Washington will be in evidence and will try to relieve the tension and bring the factions together.

WAP STOCKS BRING RUIN OF PROMINENT BROKER.

Providence, R. I., February 1.—Albert P. Miller, Jr., the Providence local broker accused of embezzlement of $300,000 from his customers, has been adjudged a bankrupt and his creditors will meet tomorrow to present their claims. His assets are said to be limited to a few thousand dollars. It is estimated that losses to creditors will total over a half million.

That Miller lost his clients' money in war stocks on the New York Stock Exchange is the information given out by the police. The broker is said to have traded heavily in Bethlehem Steel with a brokerage house in New York, and was caught short of the market on every raise. He made regular visits to New York each week, taking his wife with him, and when the crash came it was totally unexpected.

Last November Miller was ill and his return to his office his clients began asking him for their dividends and other moneys. He went home early one day, packed his traveling bag and took his departure. That was on December 16. He was not heard from for ten days and was not apprehended by the police until January 8, when he was found in a Boston hotel.

FORTY YEARS OLD

National League of Baseball Clubs Complete Fortieth Year Today—Many Changes in Officers.

New York, February 1.—The National League enters upon its forty-first year tomorrow, its organization having been founded at Louisville on February 2, 1870. It is the oldest baseball league in existence and may rightfully be termed the "grand-daddy" of all the leagues and associations that flourish the country over.

The original circuit of the league composed the Nationals of New York, the Athletics of Philadelphia, and the Pirates of St. Louis, Hartford, Boston, Louisville and Cincinnati. There have been many changes in the combination, and the circuit has been shifted from time to time until the various clubs nestled where the fans were the thickest.

In 1892 the National League was a twelve-club circuit, and this was retained until 1900, when it was reduced to eight. The coming season will therefore be the sixteenth in which Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Boston, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, New York and Chicago have had clubs.

Since the organization of the National League forty years ago, it has had only eight presidents, and one of them, Nick Young, was at the head of the league during half of that period. The present big chief is Hon. John K. Tener, former Governor of Pennsylvania.

The history of the National League is virtually a history of professional baseball. When it began its career it had a monopoly of the field, the old National association, which had existed for several years previously, giving away to the new organization. With the increase in the public interest in the pastime and the growth of many big cities, new leagues grew up. The first big rival was the American league. Instead of fighting it out for the leadership, the managers of both circuits saw the advantages of mutual understanding, and the two leagues have prospered. More recently came the Federal League, which had harder shelling against two big leagues firmly established.

And the old National League is still on deck, with prospects more rosy than ever for the coming season. Its forty-first.

INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION AT WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, February 1.—The International Joint Commission, consisting of commissioners from the United States and the Dominion of Canada, meets here today to hear all those interested in the subject of power in connection with the investigation of the levels of the Lake of the Woods and tributary waters.

This controversy has been pending between the two governments for nearly thirty years. The Lake of the Woods is a body of water 1,500 miles in area and containing some 9,000 scattered islands. By the construction of the Norman Dam at the outlet of the lake, at the city of Kenora, Ont., the level of the lake was raised materially, submerging many thousands of acres of agricultural and timber lands in the drainage area of both countries.

The commission has made a complete topographical survey of the whole territory and is now gathering the final facts as to water power in order to prepare his recommendations.

The first religious newspaper, "The Boston Record," was printed in 1815.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mr. Alcy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell."

I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good. I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it.

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly troubles, such as headache, backache, dizziness, sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

PORTLAND GIRLS IN WAR ZONE.

Portland, Ore., January 31.—Had the three daughters of F. E. Hickert, a former Chicagoan, now living in Oregon, been boys, undoubtedly they would have been warriors, with preferences for the aeroplane or submarine corps. As it is, they have determined to place themselves in the midst of war and strife. Two already are in the war zone. Miss Frances, the youngest, is a nurse in a London hospital. Miss Ethel has applied to the British government for permission to go to France to learn how to help in making munitions, that she may teach English women, and Miss Edith, next recently an assistant in the department of English literature at the University of Chicago, is now on her way to India, where, it is reported, there may be an uprising of natives at any moment. She is seeking experiences that may be utilized in her studies.

"SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST."

A proprietary medicine like everything else that comes before the public, has to prove its merit. It has to meet competition. The law of the "Survival of the Fittest" applies to this as to other things. The fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after forty years of success is still one of the largest sellers proves that it is a dependable, standard remedy for the ailments of womanhood, and one in which they may have perfect confidence.

Robertson county's lamb crop of 1916 is being engaged at 7 and 8 cents and wool as high as 35 cents. This is certainly going some, and Robertson county will be strictly in the swim this year, as the number of ewes in the county is by far the largest ever known. The outlook is also good for excellent grain crops.

The Maysville High School basketball team will meet the team of the Paris High School Friday night at the M. H. S. gymnasium. This will be the first game the Maysville boys have ever played against Paris since basketball was introduced in the local school and for this reason the outcome of the game is in doubt, but Coach Mance thinks his boys will come out on the large side of the score. This affords local basketball followers the chance to compare central Kentucky teams and their chances in the tournament at Danville in March.

TWO OUT OF FIVE

Inhabitants of the United States Are Members of Some Church.

Among the 100,000,000 inhabitants of the United States, 39,375,271, or about two out of every five, are members of some religious body, according to figures issued this week by the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. The gains made during the last year are given at 648,193 as against 779,276 during 1914.

Deducting 15 per cent in the case of the Roman Catholic church, for children not old enough to be counted as members, the figures issued by the council fix the total Catholic population at 16,309,000. In the case of the Lutheran church a loss of 10,786 members is shown, whereas the Lutheran Year Book, which has just been issued, shows a gain of 62,100. The Protestant Sunday schools of the country now have an enrollment of 16,000,000 with 1,500,000 officers and teachers.

The figures show that the Methodist church, North, now has a membership of 3,657,594, a gain over the previous year of 54,329. The Methodist church, South, has a membership of 2,970,000, a gain of 66,000. The Southern Baptist church, with a total membership of 2,705,000, gained 112,804 members, and the Northern Baptist church, with a membership of 1,252,000 members, made a gain of only 14,310. The Northern Presbyterian church, with a total membership of 1,495,000, reports gains of 52,650 during the year.

The other larger religious bodies of the country are tabulated as follows:

Religious body.	Mem'ship.	Gain.

Congregationalists	771,362	16,274
Disciples of Christ	1,363,100

ALIMONY IN PENNIES.

Sedalia, Mo., January 31.—When Mrs. George Arbuckle received her first month's alimony a few weeks ago, she was forced to pay 45 cents for express charges on the money. And when she opened the package she found an oil can filled with pennies. There were 3,500 of the round discs, and they were well lubricated by the oil which the can also contained. She spent the best part of a week washing off her alimony, and then carried it off the bank. Then she learned that she need not have accepted the can of pennies, as cents are not legal tender for amounts over 25 cents. And now Mrs. Arbuckle is on guard for the next month's remittance. If another can of coppers heaves in sight she will stand on her rights with dignity and refuse to accept it.

EYE STRAIN

Should not be neglected, for it is the result of muscular effort to obtain clear vision in eyes which are defective. Glasses, correctly fitted, are a safe means of relief. If your eyes complain ever so little, have them examined, and the defect corrected. A little defect now might develop into a larger one later if neglected. We will examine your eyes and advise glasses only if glasses will benefit you. We will duplicate your broken lenses.
